DR. PESCHAU'S GREAT LECTURE

Last Evening at English Lutheran Church in Wheeling,

A LARGE AUDIENCE ASSEMBLED

To Hear the Distinguished Former Citizen of Wheeling-The Lecture is the Best Dr. Peschau has Ever Delivered and was Intensely Interesting Throughout. A Glowing Tribute to the Tentons who Mave Done so Much in Contributing to the Greatness of America-A Sketch of the Lecturer and his Brilliant Career as Minister and Citizen.

It was an interested and delighted audience that gathered in the English Lutheran church last night, to hear Dr. F. W. E. Peschau's famous lecture on "The Germans and Their Achievements in America." Interest that would naturally be felt in the lecture was added to and accentuated by the fact that Dr. Peschau is an old Wheeling boy, whose own achievements in the Christian min istry and in true American citizenship, have aroused the admiration of his old friends and acquaintances here. The lecture deserves all the good things that have been said and written of it; it gives a graphic account of the public services, deeds of bravery, statesman-services, deeds of bravery, statesmanship that have characterized the German race's part in America's onward march to the goal of progress.

Rev. Dr. F. W. E. Peschau. Who Lectured Last Night

As a prelude, Miss Emma Bell gave a delightful recitation and Miss Serah Brown sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." Then Rev. Samuel Schwarm, pastor of the English church, introduced the speaker of the evening in a few words, in which his admiration of the lecturer were expressed.

Dr. Peschau said in opening his address:

lecturer were expressed.

Dr. Peschau salā in opening his address:

"Wheeling—good old Wheeling—is ihe dearest spot on earth to me and ever will be. I left my birthplace across the water in such early childhood that Wheeling has become far dearer. Wheeling has become far dearer. Wheeling was the home of my childhood, boyish days and young manhood. How well I remember the days when I would deck myself out in white tie, white shirt and white vest and come up town to see my best girl."

Proceeding, the speaker recalled his first appearance in Wheeling forty-two years ago, when he and his parents arrived on the Baltimore & Ohio road from Baltimore. In a touching manner he spoke of his father and mother whose bodles rest in one of the Wheeling cemeteries. The progress of this city has always interested him and whenever he saw the date-line "Wheeling" in the newspapers, that article was the first to claim his attention.

Dr. Peschau then began his lecture proper. He said:

DR. PESCHAU'S LECTURE.

DR. PESCHAU'S LECTURE.

It was one of the proud hours of my life when I stood amid the splendors of the great Tennessee centennial at Nashthe great-Tennessee centennial at Nash-ville, on October 6, 1897, and heard the glowing words of the old Volunteer State's cloquent governor when he said. "God bless the fatherland, the beautiful land of the Rhine, around whose castles and templed hills there is a halo of glory which the touch of years cannot dim nor the blighting breath of passing centuries destroy. She is the home of literature and the fountain of music. Her universities are the beacon lights of advanced learning; her philosophers Hierature and the fountain of music. Her universities are the beacon lights of advanced learning; her philosophers and trators, her composers and poets are the evangels of God, who have led mankind to higher planes of thought and a broader horizon of happiness.

"On this horizon I see the figure of Martin Luther, like an archangel, parting the clouds of gloom and revealing to suffering humanity the light and hope of immortality. I hear the faint swells of distant music breaking on shadowy shores, like the silver surf of some ethereal ocean, and I see the glorified faces and forms of Beethoven, and Mozart, and Mendelssohn, and Schubert, and Handel, and Liszt, and Wagner, revelling in the bright world of dreams catching melodies from the spheres and incease for the soul, from the harp strings of heaven. I see Humboldt and Kant and Virchow scaling the dizzy heights of philosophy and opening new mines of intellectual wealth for coming generations. I hear the songs of Goethe and Schiller pouring their floods of Joy, and hope and love and faith into the hearts and homes of all who cherish the bies with terror as Frederick the Great and hope and love and faith into the hearts and homes of all who cherish the heautiful.

"I see the nations of the earth tremble with terror as Fredérick the Great and his victorious armies sweep like phantoms of fury across the bloody plains. I hear the rumbling like an earthquake, the thundering of artillery and rear of musketry, and behold, amid the smoke and flame of battle I see 'old Yon Molike,' the thunderbelt of Germany, abattering and scattering the armies of France panic-stricken from Sedan to Paris and to defeat. I see a mighty upheaval which breaks the lines of kingdoms and principalities forever, and establishes the German empire as one of the first powers of the world. I see majestic Emperor Wilhelm I, upon his throne and the Iron Prince, the Prince Immortal, Bismarck, at his side. Behold, too, the star of the adahing young Emperor Wilham II. is leading, I trust, Germany into a new century of peace and happiness.
"I see these visions of glory passing in review, like a panorama before me, and then I remember that the best blood of this heroic people runs in the veins of my countrymen, commingling with the best blood of almost every civilized nation under the sun, and I do not wonder that the union of all these vital elements of strength and power have given birth to a new and stronger race of people and developed a new and grander civilization here in the heart of this New World."

This is a part of the noble and clo-quent tribute the famous and popular governor of Tennessee paid to Germany, and especially the Germans in America, showing thereby a thorough under-standing of them, and a full apprecia-tion. Oh that every governor and in-telligent citizen had such a worthy ap-

The territory in the southwest that is attracting most attention, aside from the southwest extension of the Elk Fork field, is the Gordon sand territory in Wetzel county, This territory is very seldem heard of and during the past year there have been very few reports of the wells drilled in. One reason why there is so little heard from this stuff is that the majority of the territory is held by the South Penn and Kanawha Oll companies. Both of these concerns are very large operators and they do not care to give out anything about their operations.

During the year which has just passed, the South Penn Oil Company and the Kanawha have been active in this territory, but no one outside of the territory, but no one outside of the companies has known anything about it. The only thing that would lead the talent to guess there was something out of the ordinary going on was the fact that in spite of the production failing off very rapidly in all the other fields, the total production of the country was not affected to a great extent and the price of crude petroleum was at the same figure it had been for so long.

It has just been learned that both of the companies mentioned, as well as some individual operators have entered into an agreement not to divulge anything in regard to the territory. It has also been learned that there has been a large number of wells drilled, about which the general public has known nothing and was not supposed to know anything. All of these wells have been good producers and they are all good stayers. It costs a large amount of money to drill a well in that section—a Madame Lillian Blauvelt.

Madame Lillian Blauvelt, the celebrated vocalist, will be heard to-night in the Opera House for the first time by a Wheeling audience. She comes under the auspices of the Woman's Musical Club, than which none could be better. The advance sale of seats has been so heavy that it is assured the star will be greeted by h large audience. Madame Blauvelt's magnificent voice has compelled praise from hardened critic and generous public alike, the heartiness of the one being equaled by the other's enthusiastic admiration. The programme to-night is one that will be en joyed by all—the popular taste has not been ignored.

A this time the South Penn Oil Company, has a block of territory that is fully twenty-five miles long and extends from the Mannington field to the Mills tract owned by the Kanawha Oil Company. The territory owned by this company is fully three miles wide on an average, and it will be seen that in this immense area they have a large acrease. Every foot of the territory owned and controlled by this great company is gill-edged stuff and it could not be purchased at any price. While the Kanawha Oil Company has not quite as much territory as the South Penn, yet it has a good sized sillce—a matter of 6,600 to 10,000 acres and like its large competitor it is doing all the work possible on its holdings.

The South Penn Oil Company's No. 1 on the Folger farm, in the southwest extension of the Elk Fork field, will be due in the sand not later than Saturday. This is la very important well, as it will open up a Jarge amount of territory to the east and south, if it comes in good.

The Fisher Oil Company's well on the Henthorn, another important southern test, is due in the sand Saturday. This is close to the Hill lease.

The Hill Oil Company's No. 6 on the Hill lease, which was drilled in a couple of days ago, is not quite as good as reported. It is making about tan barrels an hour and not twenty, as was at first reported.

not due to the railroads getting the stoff that formerly went by river, but to an absence of freight for river points. There is little manufactured iron or steel going south. Captain Henderson says this condition is the more surpris-ing since the general business tendency is toward improvement. He had anticl. is toward improvement. He had anticipated a rush of business at the opening of navigation. Passenger business on the other hand seems better this year than usual. While people do not travel for pleasure during the winter months as a rule, those going to river towns find it more economical and comfortable to go by boat than by rail during the cold weather. For several years passenger travel by river has been on the increase. It is hoped that after the holidays the freight business on the Colio will improve. There seems to be little prospect of heavy business before New Years. toward improvement. He had antici
